Free Library Memberships for residents of Nigeria

Free access to PM World Library available to those living and working in Nigeria and other low income countries

6 November 2016 – London, Sydney, Dallas, Abuja – PM World has announced that residents of Nigeria can register for FREE membership in the PM World Library (PMWL) at www.pmworldlibrary.net. The PMWL is a global resource for continuous learning related to program, project and portfolio management.

According to PMWL Director David Pells, “We are offering free library access to those in many low income countries. We previously announced free registrations for residents of Ukraine and Nepal, hoping to offer a new resource for project managers in stressful situations. We are offering the same opportunity for residents of Nigeria and many other countries in Africa and Asia.”

“While we recognize that project managers and project management professionals are often some of the most educated and highest paid professionals in every country,” Pells continues, “we are committed to knowledge transfer worldwide and have established a policy of offering free memberships to all residents of low income countries.”

Those working or living in Nigeria can register for FREE ACCESS to the PMWL at <http://pmworldlibrary.net/who-gets-free-basic-access/>. Follow the instructions for residents of low income countries. If any problems are encountered, contact info@pmworldlibrary.net.

“We have many authors and readers of the journal in Nigeria,” Pells adds. “There are also several active project management professional organizations there that we want to support; and I know of several Nigerian universities offering both undergraduate and graduate degrees in project management now. I hope that free access to the library can provide a useful resource to those studying and working there.”

Others offered free access to the new PMWL include students, authors of works published in the PM World Journal, and residents of around 80 countries listed as low-income by the World Bank. (See the list of countries for Free Access at <http://pmworldlibrary.net/free-basic-access/>.) For most there is a small membership fee, about the cost of a cup of coffee in most countries.

The PM World Library (PMWL) is a global resource for continuous learning in portfolio, program and project management (P/PM). The PMWL is produced and maintained by PM World which also publishes the PM World Journal (PMWJ), a web-based monthly publication featuring dozens of articles, papers and news stories about projects and project management around the world.
