

PM PROFESSION NEWS

AIPM to recognize PM Qualifications from Other Organizations

15 September 2016 – Sydney, Australia – The Australian Institute of Project Management (AIPM) has announced the launch of automatic recognition for the Certified Practising Project Practitioner (CPPP) level of their RegPM certification program.

This means that the AIPM will automatically grant CPPP certification to AIPM Associate or Full members who have previously completed approved project management courses and certifications from organisations including PMI, AXELOS, APMG and IPMA amongst others. For more information on becoming a member of the AIPM, please visit the membership page on the AIPM website.

Developing project management capabilities is now firmly on the agenda of key organisations, and this change gives AIPM members the opportunity to get recognised as a project management professional as RegPM certification provides similar recognition within industry afforded to other disciplines such as accounting, engineering and law.

For more information on automatic recognition for CPPP certification and to see a full list of approved courses and certifications, visit the AIPM website.

AIPM offers both the national RegPM certification system and the International Project Management Association (IPMA) certification system. Certification is your official recognition as a project management professional. It provides the same recognition within industry afforded to other disciplines such as accounting, engineering and law. For more information about AIPM's certifications, visit the certification page on the AIPM website

Formed in 1976 as the Project Managers' Forum, AIPM has been instrumental in progressing the profession of project management in Australia over the past 35 years. AIPM's role is to improve the knowledge, skills and competence of project team members, project managers and project directors. AIPM's vision is to be recognized by business, industry, and government as the key promoter, developer, and leader in project management professionalism. AIPM is the Australian national member of the International Project Management Association (IPMA). More about AIPM can be found at www.aipm.com.au.

Source: AIPM