PPP Motivations and Challenges for the Public Sector

Resource provided by Giulia Gasparini

Why and how public private partnership should be activated

10 April 2016 – Milan, Italy – A new resource has been added to the PM World Library related to Public Sector Programs and Projects. The new resource is titled “PPP Motivations and Challenges for the Public Sector”.

Published by the European PPP Expertise Centre (EPEC) – initiative born from the collaboration of the European Investment Bank, the European Commission, European Union Member States and Candidate Countries – this report is composed by three main sections:

- The first one presents the reasons why Public Administrations usually choose PPPs;
- Section 2 analyzes the characteristics of PPPs in the public sector and enlightening main issues and challenges during their implementation;
- In the last section the conclusions are drawn, in particular the main issue is the scarce knowledge of the PPP’s instruments. Public entities have economic opportunities that increase the present value of Public Administrations’ investments. Some of them are suitable to be realized through PPPs. They can optimize the rate of success and the value created but today – when a PPP is implemented – managers do not use this financial instrument properly, assessing its benefits and costs, its sustainability, etc. and comparing it with the alternatives.

PPP Motivations and Challenges for the Public Sector – This report, published by the European PPP Expertise Centre (EPEC) in October 2015, tries to identify good practices to develop PPP projects, suggesting general rules, providing examples and a list of selected documents related to the PPP topic. The EPEC aims at strengthening the capacity of public administrations to acquire a good knowledge of the different types of Public Private Partnership projects. The European Investment Bank, the European Commission, European Union Member States and Candidate Countries participate to EPEC initiative. For more visit <http://www.eib.org/epec/index.htm>.
