26 December 2017 – Dallas, USA and Milan, Italy – PM World has announced that Domenico Moccia, a graduate student in the business school at Bocconi University in Italy, has completed the PM World Library's project management research internship. Domenico is currently pursuing his Master's degree in Marketing Management at Bocconi University in Milan.

Domenico holds a Bachelor's of Science degree in Business Economics. During his studies and work abroad, Domenico has cooperated with international teams and faced a wide range of managerial issues: this led him to discover his passion for Project Management and Business Process Analysis and Improvement. His major fields of study are marketing and business administration. His research interests have included strategy, supply chain, marketing project management and entrepreneurship.

According to PM World Library Director David Pells, "Domenico researched a variety of project management topics for the library, most recently discovering Susanne Madsen's leadership website in UK. We really appreciated his diligence and contributions, even while completing an important on-the-ground internship on the island of Majorca in recent months."

According to Domenico, "I enjoyed the opportunity to work with the PM World Library this year. This virtual internship forced me to conduct research that I would not have done otherwise. That has already been helpful to me, both in school and during my current work."

Pells added, "I want to also thank Professor Marco Sampietro at Bocconi University who referred Domenico to us. Mr. Moccia was great; he helped populate several section of the library with very useful resources. The interns from Bocconi have all proven both intellectually stimulated and reliable, which we greatly appreciate."
