

Green Project Management Organization

Resource related to global initiatives for helping solve global problems added to PMWL

Resource provided by Ömer Berkay Dağlı

3 March 2018 – Southampton, UK – Access to a new resource has been added to the PM World Library on the subject of solving global problems. The new resource is titled “Green Project Management (GPM)” and is an US-based organization was established in 2009 to advance sustainability in Project Management.

GPM is a global organization that advocates for sustainability in the project management profession. They are working to help companies become more resilient, governments more efficient, and societies more robust, all while safeguarding the world’s natural resources. They provide several types of trainings, assessments, and certifications in order to drive sustainable business and realize the 2030 sustainable development goals (SDGs). For 2014, the Green Project Management credentials were top ranked globally according to research authored by Dr. Paul D. Giammalvo and published in the January 2015 PM World Journal.

To access this report, go to the Solving Global Problems section of the library at <https://pmworldlibrary.net/solving-global-problems/> scroll down and click on “Global Initiatives”. Must be registered and logged in as Free Trial, Professional or Scholar member to access.

This new resource provided through the PMWL university research internship program; to learn more, click here

For PMWL Post

Green Project Management \(GPM\) - A US-based organization established in 2009 to advance sustainability in Project Management. GPM works to help companies become more resilient, governments more efficient, and societies more robust, all while safeguarding the world’s natural resources. To reach organization’s website, click here. (Dağlı)

For more, go to: <https://greenprojectmanagement.org>

Where to post in the library: <https://pmworldlibrary.net/global-initiatives/>