PM World Journal Goes Offline, Returning in April

Monthly journal website temporarily down

12 March 2019 – Dallas, London, Sydney – PM World has experienced a database issue and has temporarily suspended production of its flagship publication, the PM World Journal. The company has cancelled its March issue and is focusing on publishing the next edition of the PM World Journal by April 1, 2019.

The website for the PM World Library at www.pmworldlibrary.net also is undergoing maintenance and it is expected to be back online in the coming days.

PM World Journal Managing Editor David Pells says he wants readers to know that the company is doing everything possible to end this temporary interruption.

“Our audience has relied on the insights and information provided in the PM World Journal for nearly seven years, and we appreciate everyone’s patience as we deal with the various technology issues that have required us to cancel the March edition,” says Mr. Pells. “We’re working overtime to get both our websites in full working order so readers can continue to benefit from the knowledge and information we strive to provide every month.”

Registered with the U.S. Library of Congress (ISSN 2330-4480) and indexed by EBSCO, the PM World Journal (PMWJ) is a web-based monthly publication featuring dozens of articles, papers and other works about projects and project management around the world. The publication has been produced and maintained by PM World since 2012. PM World also operates the PM World Library (PMWL), a global resource for continuous learning in programme and project management. To see the next edition, visit www.pmworldjournal.com in April.
