Wideman PM Website updates announced for September 2019

PM EDUCATION NEWS

1 September 2019 – Ontario, Canada – Max Wideman has announced updates to his popular and educational project management website, www.maxwideman.com. According to Max:

Guests: The Mysterious S-curve, 4th Edition Part 3 by David Garland. David describes a worked example of the generation of an S-curve from a simple five-task project. This is followed by how to generate Percentage S-curves, but then cautions against using Task Duration as a quantity to generate S-curves.

Musings: Following up on the reality of Matrix organizations discussed last month, Dan highlights three significant problem areas in typical Program Management setups, and what can be done about it.

Project management tip of the month — The Copyright principle:

- To copy another person's work and hold it as your own is illegal.
- To copy from two other people's work is plagiarism.
- To copy from three, or more, people's work is called research.

If you are looking for answers, guidelines or templates, check out Max's Issacons - "Issues and Considerations" - that are presented in bullet form for quick and easy reference by project managers.
