Wideman PM Website updates announced for June 2020

1 June 2020 – Ontario, Canada – Max Wideman has announced updates to his popular project management website, www.maxwideman.com. According to Max:

This month we've posted the following:

Guests #1: Angela Civitella adds a 4th Part to her last month's Guest paper Getting, Organizing, and Running a Project, with Managing Remote Workers. These are all practical tips and suggestions for successfully managing your project management career, especially while working remotely.

Papers: A review of Stephanie D.H. Evergreen's book: Effective Data Visualization (2nd Edn.). This book provides an opportunity to learn how to handle data and present it graphically according to its data type, and the need to get its impact across forcibly to your intended audience.

Musings: Some observations about culture, especially how it relates to managing project teams, in What Is Culture and How Do You Handle It? This is an important part of managing a project, though rarely taught as such.

Project management tip of the month — The nightmare Avoidance principle: The action you will take as soon as possible after the next calamity has occurred!

This month we have made a big change to the Home Page, which I hope visitors will find easier to navigate.

Guests: Angela Civitella adds a 4th Part to her last month's Guest paper Getting, Organizing, and Running a Project, with Managing Remote Workers.
