According to PMWJ editor David Pells, “I’ve known Iain for more than 20 years, consider him a friend and colleague, and highly respect his knowledge and experience in the PM world. Speaking of the world, Iain is truly a global citizen. Born in Scotland and living in New Zealand, he has traveled the world as PMI Chair, speaker at events, and consulting with international corporations. We are honored to have him as a global advisor.”

Iain Fraser stated, “I have followed the PM World Journal and David Pells’ activities for many years, and greatly respect them both. Contents of the journal bridge theory and practice; it’s a very useful and important resource. I am delighted and honored to join the respected advisory group of leaders that David has assembled.”

Pells added, “Iain has also been a contributor to the journal, currently authoring a series of articles based on his excellent 2017 book ‘The Business of Portfolio Management – Boosting Organizational Value’. His global experience and knowledge about project, program and portfolio management should be very useful for us, and for our readers.”

PM World engages with recognized current and former industry and professional leaders in various countries to support the organization’s dual missions of advancing knowledge sharing and continuous learning related to modern portfolio, program, and project management.
