Virtual Services for the PMI Madrid Spain Chapter members

The PMI Madrid Spain Chapter continues adding value to their members by supporting them through some virtual activities during this pandemic period. Some webinars and virtual meetings are covering that important gap among the membership physical interaction and the virtual one because the previous face to face activities delivered by the PMI Madrid Chapter. On September 14th was delivered the webinar: Gestión de Proyectos de Energía Eólica en España y Latinoamérica (in Spanish language)

The keynote speaker was: MANUEL ANCIZU BERAMENDI.

ORGANIZED BY: JESÚS VÁZQUEZ, RAFA PAGÁN, JOSÉ BARATO, NINFA MUÑOZ Y ÁNGELES GÓMEZ.

In this webinar, the keynote explained us the eolic energy project context, the importance of international standards and the application of some methodologies internationally accepted in eolic project management, the eolic project phases and its connection with Project Management, quality management, and key subjects such scope, risk and opportunity management, cost and communication management and internal documentation with the customer, and finally he explained some case studies focused on the eolic Project restrictions.

Madrid downtown streets are very empty but the project manager's spirit is still alive in our environment. The society needs us, we need to add consistent value to our membership regardless the current circumstances.

The PMI Madrid Chapter will continue organizing one webinar per month, as a minimum, during 2020. In spite of the context change, from physical to virtual presence, step by step spanish project managers are adapting their activities to the new paradigm. The interpersonal skills are having an special importance during this year to be able to follow managing projects in the best possible way.

The positive attitude and the need to communicate force all to move in the same direction. We must exit this pandemic much better that how we entered. However, one of the good project manager's lessons learned is that everything is temporary.

TOMORROW WILL BE BETTER!
