AI and the Project Manager

New book by Peter Taylor released by Routledge publishers worldwide

28 December 2021 – Oxford, UK and Philadelphia, USA – Routledge has announced the publication of a new book by Peter Taylor titled AI and the Project Manager: How the Rise of Artificial Intelligence Will Change Your World. Originally scheduled for publication in 2022, the book was released in October.

According to the Routledge release: Enabling project managers to adapt to the new technology of artificial intelligence, this first comprehensive book on the topic discusses how AI will reinvent the project world and allow project managers to focus on people.

Studies show that by 2030, 80 percent of project management tasks, such as data collection, reporting, and predictive analysis, will be carried out by AI in a consistent and efficient manner. This book sets out to explore what this will mean for project managers around the world and equips them to embrace this technological advantage for greater project success.

Filled with insights and examples from tech providers and project experts, this book is an invaluable resource for PMO leaders, change executives, project managers, programme managers, and portfolio managers. Anyone who is part of the global community of change and project leadership needs to accept and understand the fast-approaching AI technology, and this book shows how to use it to their advantage.

Peter Taylor is a project management expert, speaker, author, and consultant. He is also a change expert who has built and led five global PMOs across several industries and has advised many other organisations on transformation strategy. He is the author of the bestselling project management book The Lazy Project Manager, along with many other books on project leadership, project marketing, project challenges, and executive sponsorship. In the last few years, he has delivered over 450 lectures around the world, in over 25 countries.
