According to PMWJ editor David Pells, “I am happy to welcome Professor Harake to our global advisory team in conjunction with our new strategic relationship with ESLI Paris. There is great potential synergy between project management, supply chains and logistics around the world. We have common problems to solve; Mohamad can help us realize new opportunities for cooperation between the PM World Journal and Library and ESLI Paris, one of Europe’s leading research institutions focused on these issues.”

Prof Harake stated, “I am honored to join PM World’s team of international academic advisors. I have become familiar with their journal and library over the last few years and look forward to promoting collaboration. We can provide research articles and papers for publication, and perhaps some student interns. PM World’s practitioner orientation should also appeal to some of our industrial partners as well.”

Pells added, “Mohamad has already served as a research scholar for the PM World Library, providing works to publish as well as introductions to graduate students and other professors. His interest in project management in unstable environments seems most relevant in today's world. I look forward to working more closely with him, and with his colleagues and students in Paris.”

PM World engages with professional and academic leaders in various countries to support the organization's dual missions of advancing knowledge sharing and continuous learning related to modern program and project management.
