

Join the Authors Collaboration Challenge

27 March 2023 – Abu Dhabi, UAE – This is a call for Professionals to submit an original, self-written article on a topic related to the post-pandemic experience. PM World Journal correspondent Obi Omoregie, has launched an audacious challenge to Publish a Book, written with the support of Project Management Professionals within the Month of April.

Here is How it Works:

The Theme: Post-Pandemic experiences in Solution Delivery. The Focus of this book is on capturing your stories, ideas, learnings and discoveries from the recent Pandemic, changes you have embraced and what is the current situation you are in.

Your Contribution: Before the 12th of April – Submit a self-written article on a topic of your choice, but linked to changes, lessons, opportunities and improvements post pandemic.

This should be approximately 500- 700 words.

The Content You ask? The subject area can cover any domain including (but not limited to);

- Problem statement and scoping
- Developing solution strategies
- Stakeholder Engagement
- Team Dynamics and Collaboration
- Solution Architecture and Design
- Post-Implementation Support and Maintenance

A bit of History:

This Collaboration Challenge was inspired by the 21-day book challenge initiated by Peter Taylor (the Lazy PM) in 2020. Just like peter, I'm unaware of what articles I would receive, or what direction this book will head towards..... but I'm super optimistic of the value we can contribute by sharing our stories.

Once received, I will proceed with compiling, editing, formatting and publishing this book before the 30th of April.

So, the clock is ticking, let's begin. I need your input and I need it fast (before 12th April)
