Kushagra Singh joins PMWL research team in India

Graduate student at SDA Bocconi Asia in Mumbai joins PM World Library internship program

12 February 2026 – Dallas, TX, USA and Mumbai, India – PM World has announced the appointment of Mr. Kushagra Singh as a project management research intern for the PM World Library. Mr. Singh is currently pursuing his International Master in Business (IMB) at SDA Bocconi Asia Center, Mumbai, an academically rigorous program academically aligned with SDA Bocconi School of Management, Milan.

Kushagra Singh has 4+ years of professional experience at Infosys, where he progressed from Systems Engineer to Technology Analyst. His career has been rooted in technology-led business impact, spanning data platforms, cloud and migration initiatives, automation frameworks, and service management solutions. He has consistently driven measurable outcomes by embedding defect prevention, automation-first testing, and standardized delivery frameworks improving customer satisfaction, reducing rework costs, strengthening delivery predictability, and enabling faster, data-backed decision-making across global, cross-functional teams.

Complementing his industry experience, Kushagra is a Lean Six Sigma Green Belt, a Google Certified Data Analytics Professional, and an alumnus of the McKinsey.org Forward Program, reflecting his strong grounding in process excellence, analytics, and structured problem-solving. He has worked closely with product, engineering, QA, and business stakeholders, translating complex data into executive-ready insights and dashboards.

Alongside his corporate journey, he has held leadership roles in student governance and brings earlier experience in web development, UI/UX, and graphic design. With a long-term aspiration to transition into strategy consulting, Kushagra aims to leverage his technology-to-business journey to build scalable, high-impact solutions that create sustained value for organizations, society, and the environment.
