

Call for Speakers

We are excited to announce that the Call for Speakers for the 2027 Project Management Symposium is now open!

The graphic is a black rectangular box with yellow and red accents. On the left, it says 'We're Looking for Speakers' in white, followed by 'Tell Your Story' and 'Share Your Insights' in large yellow font. Below this, it says 'Send Us Your Abstract! Due Oct. 26' in white and yellow, and 'Event Dates April 29-30, 2027' in yellow. On the right, there is a hexagonal grid of six images. The top-left hexagon is yellow with a trophy icon and the word 'EXCELLENCE'. The top-middle hexagon is yellow with a gear icon and the word 'SKILLS'. The top-right hexagon is red with a target icon and the word 'COMPETENCE'. The bottom-left hexagon is red with a person icon and the word 'EXPERIENCE'. The bottom-middle hexagon is yellow with a book icon and the word 'KNOWLEDGE'. The bottom-right hexagon is red with a person icon and the word 'EXPERIENCE'. The University of Maryland logo is in the top right corner, and the Project Management Center for Excellence logo is in the bottom right corner.

We invite you to share your knowledge and experience with our project management community.

Whether you've spoken with us before or are considering presenting with us for the first time, we welcome proposals that offer practical insights, fresh perspectives, or experiences that can inspire and benefit our attendees.

Propose a Session

Why Speak?

Speaking at our event is an opportunity to share your project management story, exchange ideas with fellow professionals, and give back to a community that values practical experience and continuous learning.

Speakers can earn PMI Giving Back PDUs, connect with like-minded peers, and extend the reach of their insights through presentation recordings and materials available after the event.

Additionally, in recognition of your contribution to the program, your symposium registration fee will be waived.

Become a Speaker!

Try email & social marketing for free!